Toll lanes unnecessary in Alta.: Official

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Toll lanes could be the solution to traffic congestion in Calgary, according to a Canadian think tank.

However, a provincial spokesperson said Alberta simply doesn't need them.

The C.D. Howe Institute released a report yesterday stating a high-occupancy toll (HOT) lane on Deerfoot Trail could gross $40 million annually, while alleviating traffic congestion.

While tolls roads have been explored, they've never been seriously considered, according to provincial transportation spokesperson Trent Bancarz.

"In Alberta, even within the next decade, we're barely at the cusp of congestion," said Bancarz. "What we think of as congestion, if you compare it to London, New York, L.A., some place like that, a person from that city would go 'what congestion?'"

Ald. Brian Pincott said the city needs to take smaller steps toward improving existing infrastructure like introducing dedicated bus lanes and carpool lanes first.

"Honestly, I think we're a long way from that," he said. "Toll roads are typically used not as a congestion measure but as a means of paying for infrastructure."

As it currently stands, Bancarz said provincial policy states that toll lanes can only be built on a new road and not on any of the existing ones.

City may see fewer officers

METRO FILE

► Police are seen at the scene of a C-Train collision with a pedestrian in Whitehorn earlier this week. Critics are warning budget cuts could mean fewer officers on Calgary streets.

► Some police positions may be lost as part of ongoing budget audit

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

Five of Calgary's senior police officers have accepted contract buyouts and up to 40 staffing positions may not be refilled as part of an ongoing budget evaluation.

Deputy Chief Roger Chaffin confirmed to Metro yesterday that one model to account for a $10-million budget gap next year projects losing 40 officer positions.

No actual officers will be fired, but some positions could be lost as staff retire or transfer, Chaffin said.

"We certainly like the ability to keep the organization relevant, to be able to hire to attrition and keep the right people," Chaffin said. "It slows us down on the progress we are making."

The service presently employs more than 1,900 officers, but Calgary Police Association John Dooks said losing 40 officers

The Calgary Police Commission will have to sign off on any cuts. Chair Mike Shaikh said official proposals from the budget committee are expected near the end of the month.

Taxi driver's killer granted day parole

Day parole has reportedly been granted to the murderer of a Banff taxi driver 19 years ago.

During a two-hour hearing yesterday, the National Parole Board found convicted killer Ryan Love to be sincere when expressing remorse for the death of Lucie Turmel.

Turmel was killed for her night's earnings in 1990.

Love, who turns 40 this month, will now reportedly live in a halfway house for six months and must abide by a curfew along with other conditions.

He will not be allowed to contact Turmel's family or consume any alcohol or drugs during the curfew, according to reports.

Calgary ranks 28th in speed traps

MOTORISTS. Calgary ranks 28th in North America when it comes to the number of police speed traps, according to the National Motorists Association.

The group acts under the assumption that police return to similar locations routinely to log lead-footed drivers.

Calgary averages two speed traps per 100,000 residents based on the 2010 census, the association said.

Edmonton, meanwhile, ranked 19th with 3.3 traps per 100,000 residents.

TEEN SEX

Jailed in school scandal

An Alberta woman involved in a high school sex scandal involving two 16-year-old boys is going to jail for two years.

Tanya Marie Cossette, 41, also received two years probation after entering guilty pleas to sexual exploitation and Internet luring.

Cossette was arrested after students at Oilfields High School in Black Diamond alerted staff about rumours of inappropriate relationships between two boys and Cossette, who worked in the principal's office.

Court heard Cossette had sex on two occasions with one teen and exchanged sexually explicit phone texts with both.

She also gave them gifts and smoked marijuana with them.

A 25-year-old Calgary man will go on trial for second-degree murder in the death of a college student outside a bar last fall.

Nicholas Baier, 18, was killed when a Ford F-250 drove into a group outside the Texas Mickey bar in Olds shortly after midnight. A second man, aged 19, was injured.

The Crown had argued Jeffrey Leinin should face a charge of first-degree murder.

Leinin's lawyer, Andre Ouellette, said the lesser charge is a step in the right direction.

No more dogs, cats allowed at Petland

Adoption-only is the new plan

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Customers at a northwest Calgary Petland will no longer see puppies for sale in the window. The store has decided to move to an adoption-only model.

Rather than selling dogs and cats in store, the Coventry Hills location will partner with local rescue organizations and hold adopt-a-thons.

Petland spokesperson Robert Church said this is a trial run for the chain and a decision to have other stores stop selling dogs and cats would not be taken lightly.

Petland employees Rachael Strome, left, and Michaela Saraceni hold Tundra and Snopy, two cats up for adoption at the Coventry Hills Petland.

"We're just trying it out at this point," he said. "We're certainly not apologizing for having animals in our stores. We think we provide a valuable service to the public by offering them choice and that's really important."

Pets, pets, pets

- Petland has eight locations in Calgary.
- The first Petland in Canada to move to an adoption only model is in Winnipeg.
- As of today, national chain PJ's Pets and Pets Unlimited will no longer be selling animals in store. They will be partnering with rescue groups to find animals homes.

founder of Actions Speak Louder Calgary — a campaign advocating a ban on the sale of companion animals — praised the Petland move.

"It's a great start but we aren't going to go quietly until they all do. It would say a lot if all Petlands were to do it."

Minimum wage increase 'nothing'

Minimum wage earners will see a slight boost on their paycheques beginning today. But a local anti-poverty group argues the increase amounts to nothing.

Alberta's minimum wage has gone from $8.80 to a new two-tiered system that will see some making $9.40 and others earning $9.05.

Statistics Canada also released changes to the Low-Income Cut Off (LICO) data, which shows Calgary's LICO for 2011 has risen from $22,229 annually to $22,637.

Because of this, Dan Meades of Vibrant Communities Calgary argues the minimum wage hike will make no difference in the lives of those living in poverty.

"That's really the main concern. We know what

400,000
 According to Vibrant Communities Calgary, there are 400,000 Albertans living in poverty.

the cost of living is rising faster than the minimum wage is increasing," he said. "I can't think of a more regressive wage policy than one that doesn't keep up with cost of living."

Meades said he hopes the province doesn't delay boosting the minimum wage yet again, and adds a provincial poverty reduction strategy is needed.

"The only way this province can stop spending this much money on people living in poverty is to decrease the number of people living in poverty."

Police chief says law will ramp up road safety

Calgary police chief Rick Hanson deems the habits of some city motorists "stupid" and says distracted driving legislation unveiled today is long awaited and necessary.

The law now allows police officers to slap a $172 fine on motorists using handheld devices or performing other attention-grabbing activities.

Since it was announced last year, questions have been raised about the enforceability and perceived grey areas of the legislation. An analysis of provinces where similar forms of the legislation already exist reveals a wide range of penalties and recorded infractions.

"You will always find small exemptions with any law where it hasn't been effective," Hanson told Metro. "The reality is in a lot of places it's had an impact on improving people's driving habits as opposed to them checking their Facebook page or figuring out where to go for coffee."

Questions were also raised to Metro in the fall over why emergency service workers are exempt from the legislation.

Hanson said his officers have adequate road training and the expectation is they only use handheld devices for professional purposes.

He said everyone else is expected to abide by the law.

"If people want to act like police officers then become a cop," he said.

● JEREMY NOLAIS

Quiz on the basics

We wanted to know how many Albertans knew the basics of this province's new distracted driving law.

So we put together a quick online quiz and more than 430 Albertans took the time to go through the 10 questions.

It's just a snapshot of some of the more common questions people might have in relation to today's new legislation.

It's not a scientific poll but if you did take the quiz online, you can see how you fared and how you may have compared with other Albertans.

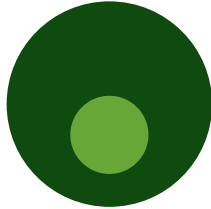

Remember, if caught distracted while behind the wheel, it could cost you $172.

Deported twice, he's back — and busted

A fugitive who was deported from Canada twice, returned and appeared on the government's most-wanted list, has been arrested in Toronto.

Public Safety Minister

Vic Toews said yesterday Wasford Uriah Steer was arrested Monday.

Steer, 39, was last deported to Jamaica in 2000.

Toews said it's not known when, where or how he returned to Canada, adding he could have used a fake passport.

"He could have come in under someone else's passport and could have been here the day after he left,"

Toews said in Regina. "This guy's quite creative."

Toews said police picked up Steer on other charges and then found he was wanted by the Canada Border Services Agency.

The agency said Steer, who has five known aliases, is in Canada illegally after he was convicted of various crimes, including possession of counterfeit money, assault causing bodily harm and assault with a weapon.

Toews said it's tough to keep people like Steer out of the country if they use fake travel documents.

Tobin's son jailed in drunk-driving tragedy

FRED CHARTRAND/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack Tobin, described as a "good son" who made a serious mistake, was sentenced to jail yesterday for a drunken escapade that killed his best friend.

The 24-year-old son of former Newfoundland premier Brian Tobin was sentenced to three years and handed a seven-year ban on driving once his sentence expires for his role in the death of buddy, Alex Zolpis.

Tobin pleaded guilty in May to impaired driving causing death.

Brian Tobin said Jack has been "a good son and a good brother. He made a serious mistake," the former premier and federal cabinet minister said.

"He's going to pay the price of that mistake."

He said his son still has potential.

"The best way he can honour his friend Alex is to have a good life and make a contribution to his community. We know that he will."

Zolpis died pinned under a pickup truck after some drunken hijinks on the roof of a parking lot.

Judge Lise Maisonneuve said she took into account Tobin's extreme remorse and his decision to plead guilty and forgo a trial in reaching her decision. But she also considered his previous record with alcohol and cars.

Strong words, warning from Iranian leaders

► Message directed at the West and allies making gains during Arab spring ► Citizens warned not to let the U.S. dominate their country

Iran's top leader warned the Arab world yesterday not to allow Western powers and Israel to "confiscate" the region's pro-reform uprisings, in comments that appear to reflect the Islamic republic's unease about their standing in a profoundly altered Middle East.

Iran has tried to walk two paths since the pro-democracy rebellions began in February — lauding the popular revolts as modern-day heirs to Iran's 1979 Islamic revolution, while maintaining relentless pressure on opposition groups at home.

But Iran is at risk of serious political setbacks. Iran's main Mideast ally, Syria's Bashar Assad, is under growing international pressure for his fierce crackdown on anti-government protests.

Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, in a speech broadcast on Iran's state TV to mark the end of the Muslim holy

"Who thought American and Zionist agents in the region would fall one after the other? This is the powerful hand of the Islamic nations."

AYATOLLAH ALI KHAMENEI

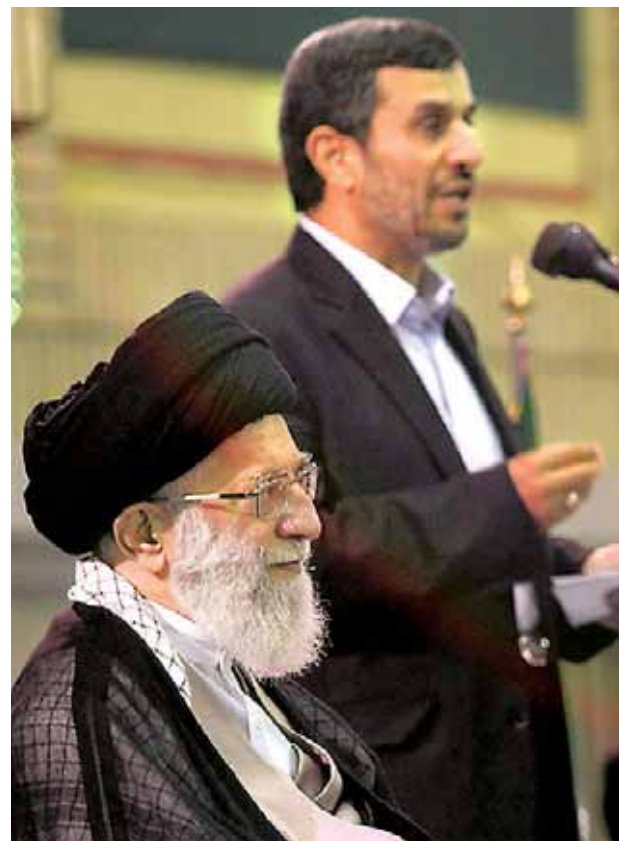

month of Ramadan, reflected the added worries that the West and its allies could gain ground in the Arab Spring.

"Muslim nations in Egypt, Libya, Tunisia, Yemen or other countries need vigilance today. They should not allow enemies to confiscate the victories they've achieved," Khamenei said. "They should not forget that those who have come to the scene in Libya (U.S. and NATO) today and consider themselves owners of the uprising are the same people who used to sit and drink with those who once suppressed the Libyan nation."

In Iran's view, collapse of pro-U.S. governments in Egypt and Tunisia were strong blows to U.S. influence in the region and a new "Islamic awakening."

Sarkozy critical of U.S.

French President Nicolas Sarkozy has criticized the U.S. for elbowing Europe and others out of the way in the Middle East peace process.

Sarkozy told a gathering yesterday of France's ambassadors that while Washington is irreplaceable, "Europe doesn't have to ask for a folding chair to participate in negotiations that concern it."

He also questioned the role of the quartet — the U.S., the U.N., the European Union and Russia — which have served as the traditional mediators between Israel and the Palestinians. He said that instead, more countries should be included.

Talks between the two sides have been stalled for months.

Sarkozy denies dirty cash claim

► Book says French president accepted illegal cash for 2007 campaign ► Sarkozy allies call accusations lies

French President Nicolas Sarkozy's office vigorously denied claims in a new book that he personally took undeclared campaign cash from the heiress to the L'Oreal cosmetics fortune five years ago — claims that come just as the race for next year's presidential elections is heating up.

Sarkozy's allies suggested the accusations are a campaign ploy against the unpopular president. Similar accusations first surfaced last year.

Still, questions about how Sarkozy financed his 2007 campaign could stain his likely bid for re-election in April and May. Critics have long deemed the conservative leader too cozy with the rich, criticism that carries particular sting now that the French economy is stalling and many of his supporters are disillusioned with his leadership.

The leader of France's main opposition party, Socialist Martine Aubry, called for a new investigation into whether Sarkozy received illegal campaign cash from Liliane Bettencourt, Europe's richest woman.

An accountant for Bettencourt said a year ago that she gave $72,000 in cash in 2007 to Sarkozy's party treasurer for the presidential campaign — well beyond the legal limit on individual donations. The accusations came during a series of investigations into the heiress' finances.

Sarkozy's office called the claim of illegal campaign cash "scandalous, unfounded and untrue."

LOGGER CUTS OFF TOES TO ESCAPE FROM TRAILER ACCIDENT

A 61-year-old retired logger feared he might die alone in a remote forest after his right foot was pinned under his six-ton trailer. With few choices, he used a 7-centimetre pocket knife to cut off all five toes to get free.

"It hurt so bad," Jon Hutt said, "I would cut for a while and then I had to rest."

Hutt then climbed into his semi tractor-trailer, his foot wrapped in a shirt, and began driving for help.

Hutt said authorities retrieved his severed toes and took them to the hospital, but doctors said the toes couldn't be re-attached because they were too badly mangled.

"They told me there was no hope for them. They said there was nothing to attach the toes to," he said.

Instead, doctors sewed his foot shut and wrapped it in bandages. Doctors warned him he may face more surgery.

Sask. OKs whistle- blower law

Saskatchewanans who are concerned about wrongdoing in their workplace will no longer be able to go to the media or opposition politicians under a new law.

Known as the whistleblower protection law, the Public Interest Disclosure Act takes effect today and outlines how and where workers should report wrongdoing.

Public Service Commission Minister June Draude says it gives employees a place to go internally.

There is already similar legislation in Ontario, Manitoba and Nova Scotia.

A couple from Manchester, England had a faux wedding ceremony at the Vancouver airport yesterday as part of their two-year trip around the world to find their perfect wedding location.

Alex Pelling, 31, and Lisa Gant, 29, held their sixth wedding at the Vancouver International Airport with Live@YVR winner Jaeger Mah hosting the ceremony. Since Mah is known for his colourful Hawaiian shirts, the couple decided to have a Hawaiian-themed wedding.

Pelling wore one of Mah's famous shirts. They played music from Mah's radio as Gant walked down the "aisle", and female passengers tried to catch Gant's bouquet that was purchased at an airport flower shop.

"The idea is that we'll travel around the world (the United States, South America, Europe), and, in the end, we decide what we like the best," Pelling said. "Then we'll come back and have the final one. All the people we've met along the way are all invited."

The engaged couple left their England home 10 weeks ago and are planning 30 wedding ceremonies during their trip. They've held "weddings" on a beach at Neck Point in Nanaimo where a First Nations elder blessed the ceremony, on horseback while in Banff, and plan to do another one in Hawaii.

Pelling said he sold his car repair shop and they both lived like hermits the past three years to pay for the wedding tour.

Canadian aboriginals are calling upon Gary Doer, Canada's ambassador to the United States, to stop promoting Alberta's oilsands and TransCanada's proposed Keystone XL pipeline as part of his duties in the American capital.

A group of about two dozen native activists, accompanied by Council of Canadians head Maude Barlow, marched upon the Canadian embassy on Pennsylvania Avenue yesterday to present a letter to Doer, who was in Winnipeg at the time.

In her remarks to the tiny crowd of media outside the embassy, Barlow chastised Doer.

"It is not the role of Ambassador Gary Doer to be acting as chief salesman for the energy industry in Canada. This is not his job," she said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Council drops ban on Money for Nothing

- Dire Straits song now 'may be acceptable'
- Radio stations free to play 1985 hit again

MARIO VEDDER/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Canadian broadcast watchdog says its decision to deem a 1985 Dire Straits smash unfit for radio just ain't workin'.

The Canadian Broadcast Standards Council has tempered a ruling on Money For Nothing, which includes the word "faggot," saying that while the homophobic slur in the song is inappropriate, it must be taken in context and that individual radio stations can decide what listeners want to hear.

"(The council) is only saying that there may be circumstances in which even words designating unacceptably negative portrayal may be acceptable because of their contextual usage" states the decision, released yesterday.

So, what changed since the council made its original decision?

The song's writer, Mark Knopfler, has long maintained that he was writing from the perspective of a "bonehead" whom he observed in a hardware store watching MTV, reacting with disgust to the fledgling network's flamboyant rock stars.

The council simply hadn't taken such context into account when making its original decision, said the organization's national chair Ron Cohen. But with that information in hand, the majority of the council's panel felt the word was intended satirically and not in a hateful manner.

"(The context) wasn't as evident without the explanations that have been provided," Cohen said in a telephone interview.

Hollywood facing downward trends

SUBMITTED

The good news for Hollywood: summer movie revenues are up worldwide as studios rebounded from a dimly slow start to the year.

The bad news: Domestically, revenues rose only a fraction compared to the previous year's, while actual movie attendance dropped for the fourth-straight year.

Taken together, the summers of 2010 and 2011 combined for the smallest domestic audiences since the summers of 1997-98.

Since peaking at a modern high of 653 million tickets sold in summer 2002, domestic attendance has ► Transformers: Dark of the Moon was a megahit this summer.

wavered generally downward, dipping to 551 million in summer 2010 and sliding again this summer to 543 million, according to projections from box-office tracker Hollywood.com.

Two so-so summers in a row are a sign of the tough task studios face to keep butts in theatre seats at a time when audiences have more entertainment options than ever.

"One down summer you could lay at the doorstep of a lack of quality films, audience indifference, whatever. But more than one or two years becomes a trend," said Hollywood.com analyst Paul Dergarabedian.

UNIVERSITY 101: A COURSE OF MISDIRECTION

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

Another university year is beginning, so post-secondary students are about to learn important "life lessons" that will stay with them long after they've forgotten what Pi is (it's a number).

So that I might save you from the high cost of tuition, books, and 55 metric tonnes of Mr. Noodles, here they are:

Condoms are king: Welcome to university, the only organization that gets away with putting a prophylactic in its orientation kit. This would be less well received at, say, Microsoft. Nary a frosh week organizer will pass up the opportunity to offer you a free condom. "Hi, I'm the leader of the Fundamentalist Christian Fellowship," they'll say. "Would you like a Trojan?"

High school has not prepared you: Real university preparation courses would only upset parents, because they would have names like, "101 things to do with your surplus condoms" and "Beggars CAN be choosers: Getting the most from your local soup kitchen."

No one cares about you: In Grade 12, your teacher listened patiently as you explained your poor mark was because the exchange student, Olaf Gooberson, rejected your advances. In university, your professor will sympathize with you only in select circumstances, such as if you are actively dead. Even then, she'll expect a doctor's note.

Textbooks are not your friend: The average university textbook weighs more than the average student, and that weight is both physical and emotional. For many of you, this purchase will be the first time you've ever gone into a store with a big wad of money, paid for something that was still in its plastic wrap, and not felt good about it. Fortunately they're a good value because humans are genetically incapable of throwing away textbooks, which will live on as doorstops and window jams until you die.

Students are (very) amateur philosophers: Like a 10-year-old who learns a new swear word, many university students learn a few simple philosophical concepts and can't stop spouting them. For instance, you will hear "How do I know anything is real?" multiple times. If you hear anybody say that, slap them. If they complain, explain that the pain is not real, but rather a byproduct of humanity's inability to perceive time. Then hit them again. For me.

University is just another step: When I was graduating, choosing community college over university was seen by teachers as a career move only slightly better than holding up a convenience store. Between the hype and the price, university no doubt seems like the be-all and end-all. But it's not.

The important thing to remember is, no matter how you do, and no matter what happens over the next four years, you will never, ever run out of condoms, obsolete textbooks, or tired philosophical catchphrases.

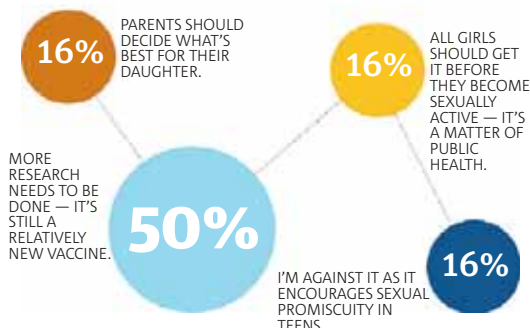

Some people also collect memories and knowledge, if you're into that sort of thing.

Worth Mentioning

Poet Maya Angelou says the way a quote from Martin Luther King Jr. was paraphrased on his new memorial in Washington makes the civil rights leader sound like an "arrogant twit."

Angelou, who consulted on the memorial, told The Washington Post that the shortened version sounds egotistical and should be changed.

The phrase is from a speech shortly before King's assassination in 1968 in which he talked about how people should remember him.

In the original, King starts by saying, "If you want to say that I was a drum major, say that I was a drum major for justice," King told the congregation. "Say that I was a drum major for peace. I was a drum major for righteousness. And all of the other shallow things will not matter."

All that is condensed on King's memorial as "I was a drum major for justice, peace and righteousness."

"The 'if' clause that is left out is salient. Leaving it out changes the meaning completely," Angelou told The Washington Post. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dalhousie prof quits over lack of parking

Frustrated with the "ridiculous" lack of parking on campus, a Dalhousie University professor has quit his job.

Dan Middlemiss, an expert in Canadian defence policy and professor in the political science department, said he decided to leave his job of 30 years because he had to arrive on campus hours before his first class to snag a spot in oversold lots.

"It's just silly. It's been 30 years of frustration," said Middlemiss, adding he made his final decision Monday after waiting hours in line to buy a parking pass only to be told he would have to come back the next day.

He said he always had to drive from home in Lower Sackville at around 7 a.m. to secure a parking spot for his 2:30 p.m. class.

There are just 2,000 parking spaces on the Halifax campus for 17,000 students and 3,000 employees, a predicament Middlemiss called "ridiculous."

Last year, the university oversold the number of parking passes by 65 per cent. But this year it aims to oversell by only 30 per cent. At the same time, the university has turned 184 general parking spots into reserved spots. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

While they did provide some awkward times, did you ever wish you could revisit your school dances?

BACKSTAGE PASS

JENNIFER LARAWAY
METRO CALGARY

If you think planning a party is easy, try planning an event that confronts a lot of people's most awkward moments of junior high and high school — the dance party.

It's the perfect storm of vulnerability, insecurity, and of course, hormones. Despite all those reasons not to go, they always turned out to be one hell of a time, especially if you got to dance with that cute boy or girl you had been crushing on for the last five minutes.

Fast forward 10, 20 or even 30 years and not much has changed, which is exactly what spurred Patty Thille to enlist the help of her two friends, Janine Cote and Mark Hopkins, to throw a slow dance party at Club Sapien (1140 10 Ave. SW) from 8:30 p.m. to midnight on Sunday, Sept. 25.

"The atmosphere is friendly and respectful, which fits with the hope we have to remove the awkwardness and anxieties that slow dances often provoked when we were younger," says Thille, who has a few tricks she learned from the first slow dance event. As a result, she says, "I've really been impressed by the event's success in embracing gender and sexual orientation diversity."

150

Over 150 people are expected to show for the slow dance party.

The proof is in the pudding. For Thille, details make all the difference. She even has a team dedicated to selecting all the songs for the evening.

"It's very hard to narrow it down," Thille says. But, if there is one thing for certain, there won't be any cheesy nostalgic songs to kill the mood.

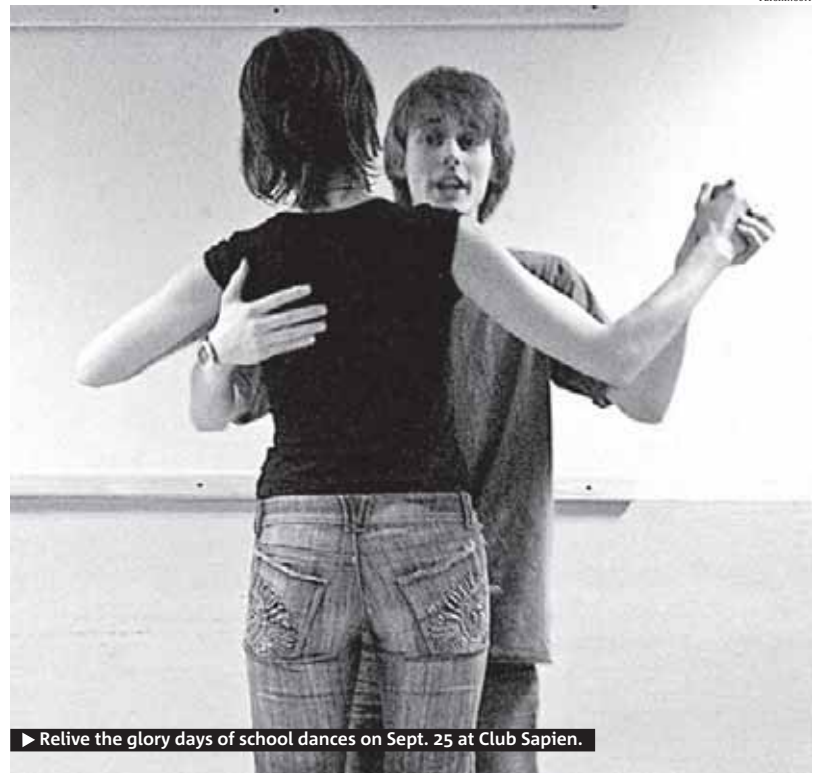

"Last time, I found myself laughing out loud when we were literally begging each other not to cut particular songs."

Sorry Bryan Adams, you're out of luck.

Also up Thille's sleeve is a team of "designated dancers" wearing rainbow coloured sashes who will break the ice with any wallflowers. Then there are the secret mailboxes, where party-goers can drop notes to each other. But these party favours are limited, so you need to get to the event early in order to claim one.

Tickets are only available at the door for $10 and all the proceeds benefit the Calgary Sexual Health Centre.

For more information, visit clubsapien.ca.

This year's event includes 24 handpicked celebrity judges for Saturday's Sauce and Chef's Challenge Competition.

Winners of this year's event qualify for the world-class competitions in Kansas City and Tennessee. Taking place Sunday, Sept. 4 from 10:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in Eau Claire Festival Plaza, BBQ on the Bow is free to the public.

Gnaw on this: Can some of food and style TV's biggest stars, Mario Batali and Clinton Kelly among them, help ABC soap fans get over the cancellation of their favourite stories?

The network's counting on it for The Chew.

Iron Chef or Martha Stewart this isn't. Nor will the five co-hosts take on top news of the day like their cousins over at The View once the show premieres live on Sept. 26 in place of All My Children and One Life to Live. What you'll see is simple, fun tips for cheap and easy living.

Kelly, co-host of TLC's What Not to Wear, urged parents to bring their kids back to the dinner table by letting them draw on butcher block paper for placemats.

If it sounds like stuff the more sophisticated Stewart might have thought up in kindergarten, you're

Damon goes viral

► Matt Damon, director Steven Soderbergh team up for Contagion ► Both now take extra care washing their hands

NED EHRLBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

While working for Steven Soderbergh is an easy choice for Matt Damon — the two have teamed up on the three Oceans movies, Che and The Informant! — the eclectic director's pitch for their latest collaboration, Contagion, gave Damon pause. "He sent it over to me with a note saying, 'Read this and then wash your hands,'" Damon remembers.

The warning was well-founded, though, as Contagion covers some nerve-rattling subject matter: A new virus quickly spreads throughout the world, quickly becoming an epidemic, while scientists and doctors race to find a cure while governments work to keep society from falling apart. What surprised Soderbergh the most about the film was how easy it was to get made. "Everyone felt there was a place for an ultra-realistic film about this subject. Nobody hesitated," he says. "It all happened very quickly — uncharacteristically quickly, actually, considering what the business is right now for adult dramas."

Damon is only one part of the massive, big-name cast Soderbergh assembled for Contagion. Playing Damon's wife — and Patient Zero — is Gwyneth Paltrow, while the Talented Mr. Ripley co-star, Jude Law, pops up as an opportunistic blogger. On the disease-fighting side, Marion Cotillard plays a World Health Organization investigator, while Kate Winslet and Laurence Fishburne's CDC officials work state-side. For Fishburne, the appeal of the project was simple. "I was kind of blown away by how smart it was, because a lot of what is being made now is kind of stupid," he says.

But that doesn't mean working on the movie has had any impact on Damon's disaster preparedness. But then he's always been bad about stuff like that.

"After the Northridge quake, I put the flashlight by my bed for like two weeks, and then forgot about it," he admits, though now that he's a parent his behaviour has certainly changed. "I'm probably more protective than I've ever been now that I have children," he says.

"My wife's name for me is Red Alert. I sometimes just check to see if the kids are breathing."

Despite playing a CDC specialist in the film, Fishburne says none of the germ-phobia rubbed off on him. "I ain't afraid of germs, and I ain't afraid of getting sick," he says. "Dying, that's some other s—."

As for Soderbergh, working on Contagion certainly has made him much more aware of the microscopic dangers around him.

"I don't know if my behaviour has changed. I'm just really aware of it now," he says.

"Somebody set up this microphone, I was handed some lip balm by one of the makeup people, which I took a Kleenex and cleaned off, but who knows if that worked. So don't get near my mouth. Having gone through it, I'm always going to be conscious of it now."

But it's not all fear and paranoia, Soderbergh admits. Taking the movie out into the world has produced some surprisingly entertaining moments — even if they are at his audience's expense. "It was fun during the preview to watch the lights come up and 400 people realize that they're next to a bunch of strangers and that they've touched everything," he says, a mischievous glint in his eye.

"You could tell they weren't happy."

A love remake for Biel and Timberlake?

► Rumours are stirring that Timberlake and Biel may not be over for good.

► Former flames spotted enjoying a meal in Toronto

Jessica Biel and Justin Timberlake put an end to their relationship back in March, but now there's speculation that their breakup might not stick for much longer, according to Hollyscoop.

Biel and Timberlake were spotted recently sharing brunch and a leisurely bike ride in Toronto, where Biel is currently filming.

"They were in good spirits," an eyewitness says. "They seemed happy. They had brunch together. They were talking. They enjoyed their food. They had a nice time."

But even if the pair are rekindling their flame, don't expect Timberlake to get too talkative about it.

"In my 30 years, she is the most special person," he told Vanity Fair in June.

"I don't want to say much more, because I have to protect things that are dear to me — for instance, her."

Gaga reveals inner dude

Lady Gaga apparently went to great lengths to become her male alter-ego, Jo Calderone, at the MTV Video Music Awards.

Along with a suit, five o'clock shadow and a pair of men's underwear, the Born this Way singer reportedly donned a prosthetic penis underneath her manly ensemble to complete the overall illusion, according to Us Weekly.

It apparently helped, as Gaga stayed in character throughout the entire night, even during back-stage interviews.

"I am not a singer or a model or an actor or anything," she told the press after accepting the award for Best Female Video.

The performer is known for her character-building stunts.

"I am just a guy," she continued.

Easy tips to shape up this season

► Canadian fashion blog The Coveteur is taking a peek into the dressers, drawers, closets and safes of ladies and gents in the frontline of the fashion industry

Site brings style savvy out of the closet

JACK ROSENBERG/THECANADIANPRESS

A moniker marrying the words "covet" and "voyeur" seems fitting for a site offering glimpses into people's closets, but there's much more to homegrown fashion blog The Coveteur than a series of random snapshots.

The Canadian trio behind the buzzworthy blog is keen on capturing intimate portraits of personal style within a cosy, familiar environment typically beyond the glare of the spotlight.

Since launching this year, The Coveteur has won fans with its photographic profiles of the stylish private spaces of notable names, as well as those working behind the scenes in the fashion world.

"I think people are all voyeurs. Everyone wants

Street style was a huge influence for Kleinberg and stylist Stephanie Mark, but both wanted to take the concept one step further.

Rather than strictly chronicling what people were wearing, they came up with the idea of adopting a more personal approach: going into individuals' homes to peruse and capture snapshots of the clothes, accessories and prized keepsakes adorning their closets.

"Once we started shooting, the element of environment really came into play then," Mark said. "We realized the environment was just as much about a person as their clothing... they kind of really complement each other."

Rounding out the Toronto trio is photographer Jake Rosenberg. The team had previously collaborated on one of Kleinberg's lookbooks shot by Rosenberg and styled by Mark.

For someone accustomed to shooting fashion on figures, Rosenberg said the notion of capturing images of closets was an entirely new concept.

In certain cases, the process turned out to be a revelation of sorts for the subjects themselves, he noted.

"A lot of people say after

► The latest growth spurt in celebrity clothing lines is upon us ► We rate the newest batch

From the Kardashian sisters's new collection for the American chain store, Sears, to rumours of a Kanye West-designed shoe line with Giuseppe Zanotti, the month has been rife with celebrity clothing lines launches and news.

The idea of famous people trying their hand at fashion design can be a yawn, especially when you think of past flops such as Jennifer Lopez's Sweetface or Lindsay Lohan's debacle at Emanuel Ungaro. But there have been some surprising hits too from Victoria Beckham's eponymous women's label to Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen's The Row. And let us not forget

► I scoured the 2011 New York International Gift Fair to find the must-have trend products for this season

DESIGN CENTRE

Twice a year the Javits Center in New York is packed with the latest and greatest in lamps, rugs, salad bowls and more as the New York International Gift Fair displays housewares to thousands of buyers of retail stores.

The show — one of the largest of its kind with 2,800 exhibitors from the United States, Canada and around the world — features the best in home decor and entertaining accessories.

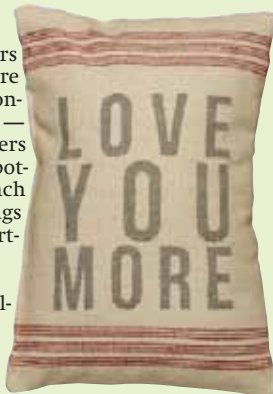

I took a peek around this trade-only event and checked out the latest looks being offered up this season.

Here are some of the trends you'll be seeing in retail stores and online this fall.

Letter and number motifs

Letters and numbers showed up everywhere — whether on traditional or modern decor — and were what buyers were flocking to. I spotted examples on French linen pillows, totebags and hand-blocked artwork to name a few.

Making big weaves

Another old time craft makes a comeback as several designers constructed items using weave techniques in materials such as wicker, knit and even rubber.

Tote bags everywhere!

Tote bag mania continues and I saw examples of the ubiquitous item made from pretty much anything. New this year: big, sturdy zippers, clasps and lots of leather handles and straps for durability. The Run Run Run Italian Shopper Tote bag is super-stylish and made of recycled water bottles. It can be purchased for $45 at kickstarter.com.

METROPOLITAN CHIC

Designers are using city streets as both literal and figurative inspiration this fall, with pieces that have urban edge.

CB2's fall collection includes a stoneware bowl etched with a tire tread pattern and the Bingo rug, with a black, white and yellow graphic, which resembles city lights at night.

SILK ROAD STYLE

From Indian bazaars, African souks and Asian markets we're seeing a feast of colours, patterns and style elements. Watch for sequin embellishments and elephant and tiger motifs.

Dear Charles the Butler,
What kind of sheets should I buy for my master bed, how many do I need and how often do I need to change my bed sheets?

Diane B.

Dear Diane B.,

First, when you go shopping I don't want you to worry or stress about thread count.

Feel the sheets and remember the fabric has "sizing" (a combination of light glue and starch which makes them stiff so they look nice in the retail store), so you really need to buy one sheet, wash it and sleep with it.

Myself, I like sheets with "percale" in the summer — this is a closely woven smooth finish cotton. In the winter I love flannel sheets, and the best part of flannel for me is that they are warm on cold nights.

Once you find a brand of sheets you like, you should have a minimum of two sets. And finally in a perfect world bed sheets should be changed weekly. HAVE A QUESTION? EMAIL ASKCHARLESTHEBUTLER@METRONews.ca

A BATHTUB IN THE BEDROOM — YAY OR NAY?

When listing 12 things she can't live without for ELLE's August decor issue, Gwyneth Paltrow included a fancy bathtub in the middle of her bedroom, without an ounce of irony.

Celeb journalists rolled their eyes like, "That's just Gwyneth being all Gwyneth." But in actuality, the bedroom bathtub has become very trendy in interior decor land. We weigh the pros and cons.

THINKSTOCK.COM

PROS

When you're tired after a long day at work, you can literally roll right out of the bathtub and into the bed.

- When your eyes are still groggy from the night's sleep, you can literally roll right out of bed and into the bathtub.
- Those special date nights could be twice as fun.

CONS

Your bedroom will have that damp, yucky, steamy feeling.

- Um, hello, mildew?
- All that rolling out of bed and into the bath will make you lazy.
- You'll essentially be sleeping in the bathroom.

► This tasty Warm Salad of Grilled Chicken Thighs, Figs & Parmigiano-Reggiano upgrades side dishes

ALL PHOTOS: MATTHEW MEAD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► This recipe serves four.

Skinless chicken breasts have become the new cottage cheese — the ubiquitous base upon which weight-loss diets are built.

But it still doesn't register well on the excitement meter. That's where chicken thighs come in. Sure, they aren't as low in fat, but being skinless and by trimming all visible fat they become fairly low in fat and they're flavourful.

Salad of Grilled Chicken Thighs, Figs & Parmigiano-Reggiano

Preparation:

1 In a large bowl, combine half each of the vinegar and rosemary. Season with salt and pepper. Add chicken and toss to coat. Cover and marinate at room temperature for 15 minutes or in refrigerator for up to 4 hours, turning chicken occasionally.

2 Place onions in a large bowl and add remaining red wine vinegar and a pinch of salt. Mix and set aside for 15 minutes to 1 hour, tossing occasionally.

3 Heat a grill or grill pan to medium-low. Place chicken thighs on grill and cook for 15 to 20 minutes or until nicely browned and cooked through, turning chicken halfway through grilling. Transfer chicken to a plate and sprinkle with basil. Set aside.

4 Add arugula, figs and remaining rosemary to onions and vinegar. Gently toss salad, then season with salt and pepper. Divide salad among 4 serving plates. Place chicken thigh halves around salad, then sprinkle salads with shaved Parmigiano-Reggiano. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ ROCCO DISPIRITO

Ingredients:

- 60 ml (4 tbsp) red wine vinegar, divided
- 10 ml (2 tsp) chopped fresh rosemary, divided
- Salt and black pepper
- 8 bone-in, skinless chicken thighs, each cut into 2 pieces each (1 to 1.15 kg/ to 2 to 2 1/2 lb total)
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) thinly sliced red onion
- 5 ml (1 tsp) chopped fresh basil
- 2 ripe fresh figs, cut lengthwise into quarters
- 2 l (8 cups) loosely packed fresh arugula
- 30 g (1 oz) Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese, shaved

Pospisil keeps Canada's U.S. Open hopes alive

Vasek Pospisil is starting to feel like he belongs among the world's top tennis players.

The native of Vernon, B.C., won the first Grand Slam match of his career yesterday by crushing Lukas Rosol 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 to reach the second round of the U.S. Open.

Pospisil needed just 82 minutes to dispatch the Czech after converting on seven of 13 break point chances.

"This is my second slam, so I'm still new to the scene," he said. "It takes a little bit of getting comfortable with these guys."

"In the past maybe it wasn't like that for me. But that is changing fast. I feel like I belong out there."

He'll face No. 25 seed Feliciano Lopez in the second round. The Spaniard was a quarter-finalist at Wimbledon in July.

"He will be tough, they're all tough at this level," said Pospisil, who is ranked 143rd in the world. "But I've been playing well for the last couple of months so I'm looking forward to it. I'm confident."

The 21-year-old is coming off a win over Argentine Juan Chela at the Rogers Cup earlier this month. He exited the Montreal tournament with a second-round loss to Roger Federer.

Against Rosol yesterday, Pospisil piled on 13 aces and 13 winners. The Canadian also defended off six break points.

"It was tight at the start but I returned well," he said. "That might have gotten to him — he saw a lot of his serves coming back. I was serving well and putting more pressure on him and trying to break him down."

"I was really feeling my returns today. When I can serve and return well, I can really pressure opponents."

Pospisil is the lone Canadian singles player left in the tournament.

► Wade Belak was found dead yesterday. He was 35.

'We've lost a lot in the last three months'

► NHL left reeling after Wade Belak found dead, the third player to die since May ► League had already lost Derek Boogaard and Rick Rypien

The NHL's summer of sadness continued yesterday after recently retired player Wade Belak was found dead in Toronto, becoming the third enforcer to die in a harrowing span of four months. He was 35.

Belak's body was discovered at a downtown Toronto hotel and condo complex in the early afternoon. Specific details of his death were not immediately available.

The news struck a tragic chord around the hockey world, especially after the recent deaths of New York Rangers forward Derek Boogaard and Winnipeg Jets forward Rick Rypien.

"As everyone knows there have been some real losses that we've experienced over the years, but it never seemed like there was three in a row like this," said Pat Quinn, who coached Belak when he played in Toronto. "Anybody that's around this game, you feel like it's part of your big family, and that includes the fans and all the people that support these players and get to know them. We've lost a lot in the last three months."

"You don't replace it. You just hope the ones that are left behind can live through it and be all right."

Like Rypien and Boogaard, Belak largely made his living with his fists. He fought 136 times during an NHL career that spanned 14 seasons, according to hockeyfights.com.

The string of incidents has raised uncomfortable questions about a possible link between the difficult role each man played in the NHL and his untimely death.

"We're talking about such a short period of time," said Craig Button, who was the general manager of the Calgary Flames when Belak played there early in his career. "It's not only about the deaths, it's the deaths that surround similar type players....

"It's not just getting hit in the head, it's everything that goes with that (enforcer) role."

Belak was popular among the media off the ice because of his friendly, easy-going demeanour.

He spent parts of three seasons with the Predators prior to retiring over the summer. Belak was scheduled to work on Nashville's television broadcasts this coming year and had recently travelled to Toronto to be a contestant on the CBC show "Battle of the Blades." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hargreaves headed to Manchester City

► Owen Hargreaves

Manchester City made Owen Hargreaves the most unexpected signing of the summer transfer window when the injury-plagued midfielder joined on a one-year deal.

The Calgary-born Hargreaves was released by English champion Manchester United at the end of last season after failing to complete a match in three years because of knee, shoulder and hamstring trouble.

However, the 30-year-old former England midfielder has proven his fitness to City, where he will likely be a backup to Netherlands international Nigel de Jong on the big-spending, star-studded squad.

Hargreaves is City manager Roberto Mancini's sixth summer signing — and could be a shrewd one if he manages to avoid more of the injuries that have derailed a career that peaked during the 2006 World Cup when he was arguably England's best performer in Germany.
